

IRATI INORIZA

Irati Inoriza's work field is a mix between visual essay and artistic ecosystem construction. Through the context relations, She takes position and argues about organized notions in the construction of the subject and his identity, both personal and collective, in a changing society.

She establishes an approach to the relation between the investigation and his contextualization and translation in images. The collaborative relations she gets in the space aren't simply a narration, but have their own body it is an own body compound by picture and text where suspect two basic aspects of the contemporary culture: The complexity and irreducibility of a concrete situation into one simple interpretation and the ability of one image not for representing a situation, however for helping us to analyse our own construction.
